

Yours are the eyes through which Christ looks with compassion on the world.

Survivors who live in a city bombarded by the weapons of war or who live in a town deluged by flooding share the same basic needs: safety, shelter, clean water, food, medical care and hope for the future. Now, more than ever, the ministries of The United Methodist Church are needed in the areas of evangelism and church growth, missionary ministries, global health and disaster response and recovery.

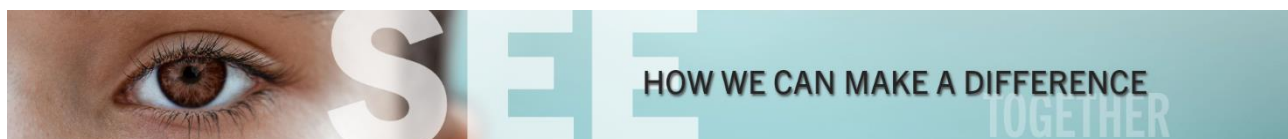

Thanks to people like you, we can bring hope and healing to those who have experienced calamity. Your participation can not only provide resources, but also allow us to walk alongside our brothers and sisters during their hours of greatest need. Together we can reflect the compassion of Christ to our vulnerable neighbors.

Between November 1 and December 31, Global Ministries, the worldwide mission and development agency of The United Methodist Church, invites you to support their denomination-wide year-end giving campaign. Global Ministries has established partnerships around the world that enable The United Methodist Church to provide mission in places many agencies and organizations are unable to reach. These partnerships were formed because of you – through your donations, your prayers, your service and your time. You can continue supporting the ministry by spreading the word in your church, your community and your circle about this campaign.

There are several ways to participate in the campaign: through constant prayer over missionaries and programs we support, by using the social media posts in your church and your personal platforms and through financial gifts. For resources you can use to encourage others to join in the campaign, visit ResourceUMC.org/see. You will also find transformational stories, missionary reflections and inspirational videos about the work you are supporting through Global Ministries. Please share these stories and graphics in your own circles to spread the message that we are focusing on the needs of God's children.

Every contribution makes a difference in this important work. Beginning November 1, make mission-funding gifts through the year-end campaign at umcmmission.org/see. For additional information, contact donationhelp@umcmmission.org.

Thank you for being the eyes through which Jesus Christ looks with compassion on the world. You make a change!
